What are cookies and how does www.guitarrasramirez.com website use them?

Cookies are files that the website or application you are using installs on your browser or on your device (smartphone, tablet or connected TV) as you browse the pages or the application and that store information about your visit.

Like most Internet websites, www.guitarrasramirez.com uses cookies to:

- Ensure that the website pages are working correctly.
- Store your preferences, such as the language or the font size you have selected.
- Obtain information on your browsing experience.
- Collect anonymous statistical information, such as the pages you have visited or how long you have spent on our sites.

The use of cookies allows us to optimise your browsing experience by adapting the information and services offered to your interests to provide you with a better experience whenever you visit us. J.R.G MUSICA SL website uses cookies to operate and to adapt and facilitate the user's browsing experience.

Cookies are only linked to anonymous users and their computers/devices and do not provide any reference that discloses personal data. At any time, you may access your browser's settings to change and/or block the installation of the cookies sent by J.R.G MUSICA SL website.

This will not prevent you from having access to the contents. However, the quality of the Services provided might be affected.

Users who complete the signing up process or have logged in with their access data will be entitled to access personalised services adapted to their preferences based on the personal information provided when they signed up and on the information stored in their browsers' cookies.

J.R.G MUSICA SL email-marketing tools include small images in emails that are invisible to users. This technology allows us to know whether an email has been read, on what date, the IP address from which it was read, etc. We use this information to conduct statistical and analytical studies regarding the sending and reception of emails to improve the range of services to which users have signed up and provide information that may be of interest to them.

Why are they important?

- From a technical point of view, they allow websites to operate faster and to adapt to users' preferences, such as storing the language, the country's currency, or detecting the device being used.
- They establish levels of protection and security that prevent or hinder cyberattacks against the website or its users.
- They enable media managers to obtain statistical data collected by the cookies to improve the quality and experience of its services.
- They serve to optimise the advertising that we show users, offering advertisement that best suit their interests.

What are the different types of Cookies that we use on www.guitarrasramirez.com?

- Session cookies expire when users leave the page or close their browsers, i.e., they are active as long as the visit to the website lasts and are deleted from users' computers when they leave the site.
- Permanent cookies expire when the purpose they serve has been achieved or when they are deleted manually; they have a deletion date and are usually used during online shopping, customisations, or to log in so that users do not have to enter their passwords constantly.

On the other hand, depending on the entity that manages the computer or domain from which the cookies are sent and that processes the data collected, we can distinguish between proprietary and third-party cookies.

- Proprietary Cookies are sent to your computer and managed exclusively by us to enhance the operation of the Website. The information collected is used to improve the quality of our service and your experience as a user.

- If you interact with the content of our Website, third-party cookies may also be enabled (for example, by pressing social media buttons or watching videos hosted on another website). Third-party cookies are cookies that belong to a domain other than our Website. We are unable to access data stored in cookies from other websites when you browse on those websites.
